INSTITUTE WILL OPEN ON MONDAY

All is in readiness for the opening of Monessen's annual Teachers Institute Monday morning in the new High school auditorium. The teachers will assemble in the superintendent's office from 9 to 10:30 Monday morning for enrollment and the program will be taken up promptly at 1:30 in the afternoon with devotional exercises by Rev. W. S. Carson. Following the music drill under the supervision of Professor Robert J. McDowell, of Pittsburgh, Mr. William C. Miller of the department of Health at Harrisburg, will address the audience. Mrs. George Frank Kelly and Mrs. Thomas W. Dawson will render a vocal duet, and this will be followed by an address by Dr. William D. Henderson of the University of Michigan, who will speak on "Fear Factor in Education."

Monday evening the first of the evening entertainments will be given by the Old Home Singers, who will give a concert in costume. This is one of the best attractions of the institute week and is considered the stellar number of the Red Path Brockway lyceum course. The evening program will start promptly at 8 o'clock and as there will be no seat reservations, all should come early in order to get good seats. The public is also invited to attend any or all of the day sessions, and patrons of the school will find the addresses of great importance.

Automobile Craze Gets Boy In Bad

Frank Ralston, 19 years of age, residing with his parents on Ninth street, spent a portion of Thanksgiving day in the lockup. He was arrested for having in his possession an automobile over which some dispute as to its purchase arose, and being arrested with the car in his possession and unable to give immediate bail, the young man was locked up.

It seems that he purchased a Briscoe car from A. W. Powell for $550.00 and gave a check for that amount on the First National bank of Monessen. He did not have that amount to his credit and the check was refused and Ralston's arrest ordered. It seems when legal action was started that more than one owner of the car appeared which landed it in the hands of Constable A. J. Smith until the title can be cleared up. Ralston was released yesterday afternoon and accompanied his father home.

New Baby

—Michael Giba and wife are rejoicing today. In fact they rejoiced all day yesterday and had occasion to feast for joy as well as for thanks. The stork arrived yesterday morning and presented the couple with a fine baby boy. Mike is as proud as a peacock and customers at the store and friends are welcome to the smokes.

WONDERFUL

Most wonderful was Mmme. Patrova in "The Heart of a Painted Woman," Valli Valli in "The High Road," Emily Stevens in "Cor," Albert Chevalier in "The Middleman," a wonder," Mary Miles Minter in "Always in the Way," "Greater Love Hath No Man," Edward Covington in "Marse Covington," Francis X. Bushman in "Second in Command," and Dorothy Donnelly in "Sealed Valley" which we have today. Mmme. Patrova again in "The Vampire" next Friday. Everyone of these pictures run from three to six days at each theatre at 15c and 25c admission. Here we charge only 5c and 10cs and yet you stay out. If you only knew what you are missing.

Tuesday also we have a wonderful picture "The Rosary" in seven reels, with a fine singer. Watch for further announcements.—Olympic. 1t

VALUABLE PRIZES ATTRACT MANY EARNEST CONTESTANTS

Never before has such an interest been taken in a contest on a Monongahela valley newspaper as is being manifested in the campaign just being inaugurated by the Independent. Never before has such a handsome list of prizes been offered here, the Overland and the $400 Lester piano being especially attractive prizes. There is not a better or more classy looking car in the valley than the Overland and there is not a better piano made than the $400 Lester with its metal tubing and other special features.

It may be that you haven't the confidence in your ability. It may be the lack of confidence in your friends. Perhaps you think they are not loyal to you. Chances are you are doing them an injustice. They have been waiting for this opportunity to prove their loyalty; you should at least give them a chance. Get among them and ask them to subscribe for the Daily Independent, giving you their votes.

They will only be too glad to help you, especially as they are getting value received for every dollar expended. They're saving time and trouble by paying in advance. Explain this to them. You will find it easy to get them to subscribe.

Read the details of the contest conditions in today's Independent and nominate yourself before some one else does it for you, or nominate someone else in the family for the prize. Then get busy. The Independent never does anything by halves. There was never offered such opportunities to the people of Westmoreland county to receive such valuable awards for such little work as we are giving you in this contest. Just think what it will mean to win an Overland touring car in seven short weeks.

Interest is Keen

The enthusiasm is growing keener each day, and by the time the first list of candidates is published (which will be Saturday) the prospects are that it will be at fever heat; the whole town is alive to the issue and as the contest progresses, you will find everyone posted.

It will be a jolly contest with hundreds of people taking sides and boosting for the different candidates. Every candidate should go at it with confidence and a determination to win. Notify your friends to get busy as you want to win one of the prizes offered.

There are advantages in entering this contest which perhaps no other contest ever offered. One of these advantages is the fact that the work is largely done outdoors, in a magnificent climate. It is the most healthful sort of work, and to be able to get out and work on such a proposition is a good opportunity to the people of this community. The air is invigrating and the more one does the more they feel like doing. Here people all want to live outdoors and close to nature. Such a life is broadening. And such a business enterprise as is offered the people of Westmoreland county by the Independent is broadening. It is a business experience which few can afford to miss.

A Business Proposition

All the prizes are valuable and not one of them could be won with less work than it would take to win an Independent prize. There is no chance to lose. All you do is to fill out a nomination blank, or get a friend to do so, and forward it to the Contest Manager immediately. Blank forms will be furnished on request. The next step is to get all friends and acquaintances interested in your success. Get all who will to renew or subscribe in your favor as soon as possible and for as long a term as possible. Remember that a subscription for a year counts as many votes as five do for four months.

Jos. McCurdy Real Senatorial Timber

While they are talking about the state senatorial toga, why not hand it to Jos. A.McCurdy, Esq., of Greensburg this time. Mr. McCurdy was defeated for the Republican nomination four years ago and he has always been a stunch Republican worker. He isn't a scheming, swapping politician who likes to play with the winning side, and who is subject to emotional spasms, but he is a dyed in the wool Republican, a man who believes in the principles of the party and who votes his principles. For long, faithful service in the party, we now have a chance to honor Mr. McCurdy and this county can produce no safer or better timber than he. In the senate he would be a safe man and his vote could be counted on to assist his party to enact sane legislation. There are many Monessen people who would be glad to read of the official announcement of Mr. McCurdy.

Big Game

Nearly three hundred local football enthusiasts traveled to Pittsburgh yesterday to witness the Pitt-State game at Forbes field. It was an ideal day for football and the holiday crowd at the grounds was estimated at 30,000. James Herron, a product of the local High school played an end position on the Pitt team and his sensational work aided in bringing a victory for the Pittsburgh team by a score of 30 to 0 over the up-state boys. Herron has been one of the stars of the season and his work has called the attention of critics throughout the east. He is considered available material for the mythical All American eleven and the sporting editor of the Boston Post has already honored him with a place on his All American eleven.

BODIES MANGLED BY TRAIN

Frank Reiche, aged 26, and Louie Laranche, aged 22, were instantly killed when struck by a P. & L. E. passenger train near Ella mines a short distance below Webster last evening. Both men are employed as miners and were walking on the tracks towards Webster when the train due in this city at 7:45 hit them. Their bodies were horribly mangled and were found by a train crew a short time after the accident.

Undertaker G. F. Wright of this city, was notified and the remains of both men were brought to the morgue here and prepared for burial. The bodies were removed to Monongahela today and interment will be made in the Monongahela cemetery.

Collision

A touring car driven by Harry Steinman of Fayette City, and a local taxi driven by Jesse Miller collided at Sixth and Donner yesterday morning, badly damaging the taxi. Mr. Miller wos coming down Sixth street when the touring car struck him. The driver had all the side curtains down and did not see the car coming down the hill. The back wheel of the touring car struck the front of the taxi, bending the springs, while all the touring car suffered was a broken hub cap.

Family Reunion

An enjoyable family reunion was held at the Linden avenue home of Mr. and Mrs. James F. Boor yesterday afternoon with all children and grand children of the couple present. A big turkey dinner was served by Mrs. Boor, and the hungry guests quickly dispatched the bird and all trimmings cooked in a most appetizing manner. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. E. P. Ross and children of Riddlesburg, Mr. and Mrs. Scott Rinedollar of Everett, Mr. and Mrs. Morse Ney and son of this city, and Miss Lou Boor, William and Percy Boor of this city and Mr. and Mrs. G. C. Diehl.

NOTICE FIREMEN

All members of the local Volunteer Fire Department are requested to be present at the meeting to be held in the borough building Sunday afternoon at 2:30. Officers will be nominated at this meeting to serve for the ensuing year and other business of importance will be given consideration.

MOST SURPRISING THING

While talking for "The Rosary," do not forget that Frank Keenan, the famous star, pronounced the greatest character actor that ever appeared on Broadway in that magnificient dramatiztion "The Long Change" in five acts, adapted from the story by the renowned author, Peter B. Kyne, produced by Edward Le Saint, Broadway Universal feature, Thursday, December 2. 1t

Killed

John Furlong, a resident of Fayette City, aged 33, was run down by a shifting engine on the Western Maryland railroad near here yesterday and had his leg severed above the knee. He was taken to the Monessen hospital where he was given medical aid but his condition was such that he died early last evening. The accident occurred when Furlong attempted to board a shifter that was running toward Wick Haven. Mr. Furlong is survived by his wife and one child.

Believes in Advertising

Mr. John D. Rockefeller is worth approximately $900,000,00. On that basis his income is about $54,000,000 a year. How he has amassed this wealth is quite modestly answered by the oil king himself. "I was shrewd" he has said. In this case we'll accept that excuse. Mr. Rockefeller has just manifested some of his shrewdness. He, unlike many rich old men who know how to pile up riches under old law and under old conditions, seems ambitious to keep pace with one sprint of the new age. He wisely believes, like his Sabbath school teaching son in advertising. He has just spent some $23,000 in advertising. This sum was paid for the admission of some 93,000 Cleveland school children to the Cleveland flower show. The children who were hurled into the maze of floral beauty in a jam, like cattle, were almost unable to catch a glimpse of the wondrous beauties of nature. Some suffered broken limbs in the throng. Many fainted.

But it mattered little. The oil king was advertised. "Wasn't it lovely," said mothers in other cities. And again the Rockefeller press agent perhaps chuckled: "Now they'll forget about those Colorado mine murders." But, here, Mr. $1,000 a year Working Man, here is how much it cost this man with a $54,000,000 income to get this advertising. As much as if you, if you are so fortunate in these days of hoarded millions, to receive $1,000 for your 12 months' toil, would spend if you bought the baby a new toy or if you took the family to the park or the movies. That is to say, that $23,000 meant to Rockefeller out of his cash income, just what 42 cents would mean to you, out of your $1,000 income. And when you spend 42 cents for the baby do you find in every newspaper in the country a story about your philanthropy? Advertising does pay. But not when you misrepresent the goods.

Want to Reach World Markets

American manufacturers and jobbers are insisting that the Washington government give them every opportunity to reach the markets of the world, and as usual the demand also calls for "the quickest route." The Commerce department has established several branches in the large centers, and evidently the news has gone round, since there are applications for twenty-five additional branches in as many different cities. The federal authorities have given assurance that they will throw the throttle wide open and the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce is being expanded rapidly in order to meet the opportunities offered to the people by reason of the European war. There has been a great improvement in the nature of our foreign commerce, and the millionaire tourists have been obliged to stay at home to keep from getting shot by the American ammunition that has been going over the water in shiploads.

Champ Clark for Preparedness

It is gratifying to learn that Speaker Champ Clark has pledged his hearty and unqualified support to the president's national preparedness program Thus far most of the dissenting congressmen have been found in the ranks of the Democrats. Senator Tillman, chairman of the naval committee, will also give his support to the measure. The majority of the Republican leaders in congress are for even a more comprehensive measure. Boies Penrose advocates 48 dreadnaughts, one named after each state in the union, and others want a navy larger than contemplated in the administration plan. Public sentiment may force the refractory Democrats into line so there will be but slight opposition. It is to be hoped so, for the question is one over which there should be no discord

Adequate national preparedness was likely the theme of many of this year's Thanksgiving sermons. The ministry as a whole is composed of deep thinkers and students of current affairs. True, they are ardent disciples of peace, but indications point strongly to the fact that a large proportion of the ministers of this country are keenly alive to the constant invitation to aggression and resultant war, our defenseless condition holds out to militant powers. We should line public opinion up unanimously behind the president so that there will be no halt in his program when congress assembles. The ministers can aid tremendously in the work and many are doing it.

After seeing the display of Maish Comforts in our show windows, most people are not satisfied until they come in and sample their feather-lightness.

"Just like down!" that is what almost everyone exclaims. "Better than down," we say. And physicians heartily endorse our say-so.

There's no more healthful kind of bed comfort than one of pure, sanitary cotton. And the purest cotton comfort we have been able to find is the

Maish Cotton Down Comfort (Laminated)

But that isn't their only point of superiority. Maish Comforts do not bunch and lump. They stay comfortable till they're worn out. Made of finely-curled cotton, of exceptional purity and under absolutely sanitary conditions.

They keep light, fluffy and uniform because they're made by a special process which gets the best service out of the best cotton and keeps it in shape

This kind of comfort costs very little more than he 'don't care" kind. So why not have it?

Come in and let us show you how light as well as thick Maish Comforts are.

The covers of lovely Mausaline Mamilk and Mausateen in soft art shades are as fascinating as the wonderful lightness of these desirable comforters.

NOT THE ONLY ONE

There are Other Monessen People Similarly Situated

Can there be any stronger proof offered than the evidence of Monessen residents? After you have read the following, quietly answer the question.

Mrs. W. Koerner, 119 Knox avenue, Monessen, says: "I had a bad fall which injured my back. I suffered from a constant pain across my loins and in the morning I was always worse. If I stooped, a sharp pain caught me and I couldn't straighten. The secretions from my kidneys were unnatural and caused me annoyance. I didn't rest well and rheumatic pains made it hard for me to get about. I was often so lame that I had to sit on one cushion and I had puffy cacs beneath my eyes. I doctored and tried different medicines, but got no relief. Two boxes of Doan's Kidney Pills procured at the Hirsch Drug Co. drove away most of the trouble. I take this medicine off and on as a kidney tonic and it keeps me in good health."

SYNOPSIS.

Kitty Gray, newspaper woman, finds in a curio shop half of a broken coin, the mutilated inscription on which arouses her curiosity and leads her, at the order of her managing editor, to go to the principality of Gretzhoffen to piece out the story suggested by the inscription. She is followed, and on arrival in Gretzhoffen her adventures while chasing the secret of the broken coin begin

TWENTY-FIRST INSTALLMENT

CHAPTER LXXIII.

The Encounter at Sea.

Over the sea, up into the stars, sped the distress call of the ship at sea: "S. O. S. Gretzhoffen! S. O. S. Gretzhoffen!"

Broken, incoherent at times, but imperative, the strident wail of the wireless clamoring out into the empty air, asking for ears far away to listen to what it said. And ears did hear—the ears of friends.

The prime minister of Gretzhoffen, as has been said, had by this time succeeded in making some sort of a clearance of the unwelcome guests of the Gretzhoffen palace. He had got the king to bed, some of his officers to horse, and a few of his servants to work. As for himself, he felt himself unable to establish the broken machinery of the government on any lasting basis. Frederick—Count Frederick—the man with the strong brain and arm—where was he?

Bent upon answering for himself this somewhat imperative question, the prime minister made search here and there for some clue to the missing nobleman. His agents ran the trail to the dock whence Count Frederick had sailed so many days ago. He learned that at the time the king's yacht had put out there had been seen the line of smoke of a passing steamer, far below, toward the mouth of the bay. Apparently the king's yacht had set out with the purpose of intercepting this steamer. What then had happened none could tell. Somewhere out on the sea the nobleman of Gretzhoffen had disappeared.

Therefore, said the prime minister to himself, it might well be true that Count Frederick, having been gone a certain period of time, might now be ready to return. These long absences were usual with him, but always he had come back. Hitherto that had meant his return by land. Now it must mean his return by sea. It might be quite as well, reasoned the prime minister, to have one of the earliest interviews with Count Frederick on his return. It was well, surely, to be well established with those who would take control of affairs in the distracted kingdom of Gretzhoffen.

"I shall even take our other yacht, the Adelina," said the prime minister to himself, "and put myself in the way of the royal yacht, should it now be returning." And even so he did.

The Adelina was a stout little steaming craft, of good lines, and well enough armed.

The prime minister did not hasten in his errand, for indeed he had no definite purpose in view. Only, having put the Adelina into commission, he pushed out quite beyond the bay, until he felt the long roll of the Mediterranean under him. Then, as it chanced, at a point not so far from the late shipwreck of the Prinz Adler, he slackened speed and kept himself barely under way. Having nothing better to do, he waited.

It was night now, and the stars were shining brightly above. The gentle airs of the South European sea were soft and languorous. But, to the prime minister, as he restlessly paced the deck of the Adelina, these things were lost. He was engaged in reflections of none too pleasant a nature. Sighing, he said to himself: "There is no use in this. I might as well put back."

He turned as the boat's wireless operator hastened to him now, a paper in his hand. He had not noticed the crackle of his own wireless masts of late, although from time to time he had sent out signals in the hope of striking somewhere some information regarding the missing craft.

"I beg pardon, sir," said the messenger excitedly, "but we have just got an S. O. S. Someone is calling the Adelina."

"Calling us—where is it—who is it?" demanded the prime minister.

"They are calling Gretzhoffen and signing 'Frederick.' It is S. O. S.—they are in trouble somewhere. Who is it, excellency?"

The prime minister started as though struck by an electric shock. "Frederick! Who but the very man I want—Count Frederick—and calling us! Tell me—what is it that he says?"

"Only the same thing, excellency—'S. O. S.—Gretzhoffen—Adelina—Frederick.' And, yes—he says 'One hundred and seventy-five miles south-southwest.'"

"One hundred and seventy-five miles—that, of course, must mean from the port whence he sailed. We are more than half of that where we lie now—we cannot be more than forty miles from him this minute."

"Easily within that, excellency. The stuff comes awfully strong—they are close, that is sure."

"Send the captain at once," ordered the official.

The captain came and learned this news also. At once the bow of the yacht was headed toward this call, which came down out of the stars imploringly, urging speed.

That was what the night called out with its mysterious voice. The quick wit of Count Frederick had availed in this emergency in which he found himself. He knew that the Adelina would be in commission. He hoped that someone might be found to take command. He knew that any aid which came, must come soon.

The Adelina now swung in full speed, her engines purring softly in a continuous roll as she took up her top gait, and held it steadily. Always the call came, "S. O. S.—Gretzhoffen—S. O. S.—Gretzhoffen." For, as a matter of fact, although left long since in his own den on the upper deck, the operator of the Princess had dutifully done what he had been bidden to do.

They plowed on into the starry night for some time. At length an exclamation came from the captain to the official who stood at his side on the bridge.

"I see her!" said he. "Dead ahead, and coming on at a good clip herself, screaming bloody murder. Well, well, we will see in a couple of jiffies what it is all about. She's not sinking—she's not on fire—what's wrong there?"

Meantime, on board the Princess such confusion reigned that at the time none saw the swift approach of the Adelina. The owner of the Princess was busy with his late prisoners. Count Frederick was once more assailed when he attempted to leave the wireless room—where, as has been said, the operator still held to his task, wholly ignorant, naturally, that his call to Gretzhoffen had been answered thus swiftly. Indeed, Frederick and Kitty both found themselves in desperate plight enough, for one of them was outnumbered, and the other overpowered.

But now there came the calling of men on deck, and the rush of feet as they ran here and there. Even Wyndham, engaged in his drunken sport of hectoring the weak girl who cowered helpless and terrified in his own room, at length left her and came on deck.

By this time Frederick had once more broken free of the men who had attacked him, and had himself reached a place on deck whence he could see the outline of the oncoming boat. The searchlight of the Adelina swept the decks of the Princess. Back of it could be seen little except the loom of her rigging. But now came the flash of a shot and its plunge into the sea dead ahead of the Princess.

"Good bless us!" exclaimed Wyndham, almost sobered now at this, "They are firing on us—firing on the British flag. It's not done, you know!"

"But it is done, sir," said the executive officer at his elbow, when a second shot carried away a part of the bowsprit of the Princess. "Round to, or she will sink us."

SEVERE BRONCHIAL COUGH

Yields Quickly to Vinol

Here is another letter we are permitted to publish for the benefit of Monessen people who suffer from chronic coughs, colds or bronchitis.

Miss Oda Nelson, a stenographer of Teanack, N. J., says: — "I suffered from a severe bronchial cough. I had bad coughing spells and became so weak it was hard for me to go to business day after day. I tried cough medicines and doctors' prescriptions without benefit. Through a friend I learned of Vinol and after taking one bottle my bronchial trouble was better. Its continued use stopped the cough, built me up and I gained in weight."

It is the combined action of the medicinal elements of cod livers aided by the blood-making and strength-creating properties of tonic iron and beef peptone, which makes Vinol a constitutional remedy for chronic coughs, colds and bronchitis, and at the same time it will build up the weakened, run-down system and re-establish strength.

Don't forget we will return your money if it fails to give you satisfaction.—Hursch Drug Co., Monessen, Pa.

A good sized audience enjoyed the concert given by the Monessen Male chorus in the High school auditorium last evening. Every number on the program was well received and the soloists displayed their abilities to a good odvantage. In addition to the concert and solo numbers a clever sketch entitled "The Littlest Girl" was presented in a capable manner by W. O. Williams, James Russell and little Nelda Murphy.

Our next weeks' program shoots way up. The time is gone by when we were in doubt as to the quality of our program. We now guarantee every day, but of course some days are greater than others and our great day of next week is Tuesday—"The Rosary," a Selig Red Seal play in seven reels. Rev. Francis T. Kobb says "The Rosary" combines all the features that go to make up a great sermon. It is excellent, above any criticism. It is acting beyond comparison. A production that is commended by those of every religious faith.

The hours I spend with thee, dear heart,
Are as a string of pearls to me.
I count them over every one apart.
My Rosary, My Rosary.
I tell each bead unto the end
And there a cross is hung. 1t

Thanksgiving Day

Thanksgiving Day in Monessen passed off in a very quiet manner. The local business houses were closed during the day and after attending the union services in the morning, the people were given plenty of time to do credit to the Thanksgiving bird at the noon hour. No football games were scheduled for the local gridiron, and while the theatres handled the usual large holiday crowds, the majority of the residents elected to remain at home.

National Prohibition

A constitutional amendment providing for nationwide prohibition is to occupy a place among the important problems that congress will consider during the coming session. Senator Morris Sheppard of Texas, announced that he would introduce a resolution carrying such an amendment as soon as the session begins.

Senator Sheppard led a fight for nationwide prohibition in the last congress, but was unable to put his resolution through. He said that he believes the coming session would offer an opportunity for favorable action.
